

John Nicola Marathon des Sables

John Nicola, founder of OptiqueLine, this month will compete in the Marathon des Sables for the second time. He has committed his fundraising efforts to the National Vision Research Institute (NVRI), "to help in their quest to discover cures for eye disorders and to continue their amazing developments with the bionic eye".

Known as the MdS, the Marathon des Sables is a self-supported six-stage event run over seven days covering over 250km.

The race requires participants to be self-sufficient. To support John Nicola's campaign visit www.aco.org.au/mds
